The Science Behind 4Restore™

4Restore helps increase the amount of Nitric Oxide in your system, enhancing your body's ability to absorb more oxygen and antioxidants. Nitric Oxide is important in your body's ability to function normally. N-O is known as a signaling molecule and acts as a cue for other molecules to perform a multitude of important bodily functions. In fact, N-O has been linked to improved cardiovascular health and has been described as one of the greatest discoveries in the history of cardiovascular medicine.

N-O is an essential element that humans produce naturally, but one that must be replenished on an ever-increasing basis. Regardless of your physical condition, your level of N-O declines with age. At age 40, studies show that men produce only 50% of the Nitric Oxide they did at 20, while women on average produce only 35% at the age of 50 as they did at 20. That's why incorporating 4Restore into your daily routine is ideal for a healthier and more athletic future, as it provides broad support to both health and fitness.

This visionary formula features Red Beet Extract (BR), which supports the increase of Nitric Oxide, which may improve performance during both exercise and recovery, now possible with even higher N-O levels. The blend also includes Eurycoma Longifolia (Long Jack), American Ginseng, Flower Pollen and Pomegranate (PGA) to help support the release of free testosterone and substantially reducing fatigue.*
